VICTORIA, (B. C.,) Nov. 20.-The steamer Empress of China arrived today bringing Yokohama advices to November 9. Some excitement has been created in Yokohama by the detention of the Oriental and Occidental steamer Gaelic on her out ward voyage to Hongkong in order that a search for contraband goods might be made by the Japanese authorities. On the evening of November 4 two tor pedo-boats took positions on either side of the Gaelic and were presently followed by a guardship containing a detachmen marines. A group of custom-house officers went aboard and asked permission to examine the cargo, explaining that they had received information that contrabance wares had been shipped to San Francisco Captain Hearne protested against the search but otherwise offered no opposition. The proceedings were conducted with per courtesy on both sides. After a partial inspection the business was postponed for the night but was resumed next day when the ship was allowed to go on her way. According to general report two of the passengers were known to be naval experts and the possessors of some secret engine of destruction which was believed to be hidden in their baggage. Nothing liable to seizure was found, however. During the greater part of November the subject was under discussion by How ard, the steamship agent and the British Minister and Consul. It was understood that no dissatisfaction was caused by the action of the authorities, who asserted tha was of vital importance that they guar sgainst the particular danger involved in this case. While the examination at Yo-kohama was drawing to a close intelli-gence was received that the suspected travelers had transferred "themselves or their belongings to the French mail steamer Sydney, and were on the way to Shanghai by way of Kobe. In obedience to telegrams sent to the latter port, permission to search the ship was obtained from the French Consul and the discovery was soon made that a passen-ger calling himself John Brown, and claiming to be an American was bound for under contract with the authorities within eight weeks from time of his arrival. He professes to have discovered an xplosive of tremendous power, which he eclared he had first offered to the Japanese, but as his proposal was contemptu-ously refused he turned to the other belligerent and sought employment from the Chinese legation at Washington. Receiving sufficient encouragement for his purposes he started at once for the east accompanied by an American assist-ant, registered as "George Howie," and a Chinese interpreter furnished him by the legation. How the Japanese were warned of this transaction has not been discov ered, but their apprehensions were awak-ened to such an extent that they determinted at all hazards to prevent further ss of the party. The arrested m are under close guardianship in Kobe.

It is understood that the French Minister in Tokio protests earnestly against the action of the Japanese in this case, and that he has telegraphed home for special instructions. Japan will contend, in aefense, that the persons detained had entered into an agreement with the Chinese government officials by which they undertook to conduct hostile operations of great magnitude and importance against both and as French representatives here sta-tioned were not authorized to interrupt them in their journey to the seat of war, it beame necessary as a measure of self-protection to have recourse to belligerent rights. Japan will claim that a seizure of this description, namely of individuals in actual service of an enemy, proceeding on neutral vessel to that enemy's country, is justified by recognized principles of international law.

The Korean Prince has started for home, after enjoying the round of entertainments offered him by various government offi-cials. While in Tokio he naively at-tempted a few diplomatic equeries with some of the foreign ministers, apparently unconscious that the game might prove dangerous, if carried too far. War is teaching the Chinese Emperor a lesson which he has hitherto stubbornly refused to learn. For the first time he condescends to notice personally outrages committed by his subjects upon alien residents in his domains. An edict was issued October 24, and posted in the streets of Peking, announcing that His Majesty exercises the same authoritative benevolence over the foreign countries of the west as that which he applies to his own. Only "wojen" Japanese vermin) are excluded from his protection, and this is because they have disturbed the public peace and encourage the disorderly classes in China to molest strangers and particularly missionaries. To counteract their evil influence, the Emperor now warns his people that if any of them be remise in their behavior toward Europeans or Americans "their conduct will be investigated, and every one of them, without fail, reported to his superior and severely dealt with. Let every one tremblingly obey and not oppose."

He says he was greatly surprised on his arrival at Baltimore to be turned over to the police on a charge, the nature of which he did not understand. Without being siven an opportunity of defending himself, he was, he declares, brought to Ellis Island under the name of Peter Ohnet and, after being detained there a few days, was deported for Liverpool. After his arrival at Liverpool he became ill and was for some time an inmate of a charity hospital.

He said yesterday that he left Liverpool on July 3 last on the Beaver line steamer Lake Ontario for Montreal. He purchased a ticket for 35 shilings, being a part of the money he had obtained through sympathizers, through the nafration of his story. Finding himself in Canada with neither money nor friends, he made his way to St. Johns, where he was employed for three years in the Third Company of the Royal Canadians. His sole aim, he declares, was to get back to this country for the purpose of obtaining justice for the injuries he had received and he waited such time as a favorable opportunity might enable him to desert and enter the United States.

Interview it had been decided to arrest a number of other persons whose names were not to be given out.

Perry related in detail the story of Hokmes's arrest in Beston, and the manner in which Mrs. Pitzel was decoved from Burlington. He said that in the secret conference today nothing had been said that would in the slightest degree refute his original theory that Pitzel had been murdered. When in the West he saw the parents of Mrs. Pitzel and they told him that their daughter had complained of the exorbitant fee charged by the St. Louis lawyer, $2500. In corroboration of his murder theory Perry said that he had from Mrs. Pitzel an exact description of her husband, agreeing in every respect with that of the corpse found in the Callowhill-street house. Mrs. Pitzel, he continued, was perfectly innocent of any complicity in the whole affair. She told Perry last night that she had received only $5000 in cash. She said holmes had taken $5000 of the money and put it in a speculation in Fort Worth, in which Pitzel was also interested. Holmes told Perry that this was true.

and alleged confession at Boston, Nov. 20.—Mrs. Carrie Pitzel, it is claimed, has made a full confession of the alleged insurance swindle, it is stated that she has implicated Holmes, at whose suggestion, it is claimed, she went to Burlington, Vt.

She stated that Holmes substituted the alleged bogus body for that of her husband and collected the insurance, but she was kept in ignorance of the whereabouts of her husband who disappeared at once. Since the affair she has been roaming about from place to place, prompted by Holmes, in search of her husband and it, was through the hope that she would be grams of the detectives. Now she-fears that the body for which the insurance was paid was not a bogus one, but that of her husband. Mrs. Plized also fears that her daughter, Alice, who was the only one besides Holmes to identify the body, has been spirited away as she has completely disappeared and Holmes is the last one known to have seen her. Holmes asserted that he left Alice and two other Pitzel children at their father's home in Detroit a month ago and since then has heard nothing from him. Holmes further stated today that when he came to Boston on Tuesday last he intended to take passage for Berlin, but changed his mind and before he could perfect other plans the detectives had him.

Blanche cool mines, on the Panhandile railroad, et Collier's station.

A new miner, an Italian, put in an overcharge thast, which ignited the coaldust in the mine, and a fearful explosion followed, carrying death and destruction in its path. There were forty-eight men in the mine at the time, and the following are known to be dead:
MECHAEL ROONEY.
THOMAS JORDAN.
THOMAS JUCKER, married.
DAVID ROWLAND, married.
JOEN DOWNELLY, married, leaves ten children.
ANTONIO SATTUE, married.

RAFFILE NECKI, will die.

JASPER LAWREINCE.
THOMAS HARRIS, colored.

After the explosion there was a terrifo whirlwind in the mine, carrying everything before it. Donnelly and Rooney were in the mine, some distance away, and going toward the mouth. The force of the explosion drove them nearly a hundred yards out of the mouth of the mine and landed Rooney on the car track, killing him instantly, while Donnelly tanded in a gulley, striking his head against a post. His brains were dashed out and scattered for yards around. His wife was the first to find him. She is prostrated by the shock. There is livtle hope that she will recover.

The news of the disaster quickly spread and in a few moments people were crowded about the mine. Many heartrending scenes were enacted. The wives and children of the miners were frantic. In a short time a rescuing party was organized and went into the mine after the bodies. When the bodies were brought to the surface many women swooned at the sight. Prosecuting Attorney Colton and Coroner Walkins of Wellsburg were soon on the ground and took charge of the bodies. When the bodies are killed and several injured. The State Mine Inspector will be here tomorrow to take part in the investigation.

There were miraculous escapes when the explosion courred. William Davis was in the entry, 150 feet from the entrance and when he heard the explosion he lay down near the rib of the mine and the whirlwind, carrying rocks, fire and death, passed over him. An emply coal car standing at the entrance of the mine was blown twenty-dive years. The mine is owned by W. E. Smith of Wellsville and L. O. Smith of Cumberland. The mineer charge that the accident was due to the inexperience of the Italian miners and deelare they will not work with them any more.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—A meeting of the Retail Grooers' Union of New York was held last night and a sharp discussion ensued concerning the sale of groceries by the large dry goods stores. It is claimed that there is a great deal of deception on the part of the big dry goods stores in salbing groceries.

The union members declare the object is to attract people into the stores by advertising great reduction sales of groceries, and, if they do not buy that class of goods, they are tempted to purchase other merchandise. A committee was appointed to draft resolutions, denouncing the selling of groceries in department stores.

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 20.—The Callfornia Fruit-growers' convention was called to order in the Assembly chamber of the Capitol this afternoon. About 150 ites were in attendance. Mayor nan and L. W. Buck presided. R. D. Stephens and B. J. Shields were chosen vice-presidents and Edward F. Smith, secretary. Chairman Buck introduced Gov. Markham, who delivered an address of cultural future for California. He said that the soil could not be prevented from producing the best fruit on the face of the globe. People might come to the the globe. People might come to the State from the East, expecting to get rich in raising fruit while they sit in their parlors all day and smoke ten-cent cigars and meet with disappointment. On the other hand, the man who gives in-dustrious attention to his crops is sure to be eventually successful. Gov. Mark-ham said that California growers had learned one lesson, and that they were no longer shipping unripe and uneatable longer shipping unripe and uneatable pranges to the Eastern market.

H. W. Einstock, who welcomed the delegates on behalf of the people of Sacramento, referred to the fact that when the convention last met here in 1886 California was then shipping away but 4000 carloads annually of green, dried and citrus fruits. Now the output is 20,000 carloads annually. He predicted that he would see the year when 50,000 carloads would be shipped.

Chairman Buck in an address read from manuscript quoting statistics showing the wonderful increase of the horticultural industry since 1871, when the fruit-growing industry began to be of importance. He quoted a prediction made by C. W. Reed of Sacramento in that year. Reed had prophesied that he would live to see annual shipments of 1000 carloads of fruit from California. The speaker referred to the co-operation of the fruit-growers. He said that it had already been tried with good results, and he believed that a sydicate representing the whole of the fruit crop would be able to get better terms, and better treatment from transportation companies then individual growers. Buck closed with kindly reference to the State Board of Horticulture, referring particularly to its work in stamping out the black scale and other fruit pests.

stamping out the black scale and other fruit pests.

This afternoon's attendance at the convention of fruit-growers was augmented considerably by late arrivals and there were in the neighborhood of three hundred persons present. The chair announced the first business in order, to be a discussion on "Transportation and Freight Rates on Green and Dried Fruit."

Jester of Placer was the first speaker. He read a series of resolutions adopted by the growers of Placer county to the effect that the era of high prices has gone by, and that the only thing left to render fruit-growing profitable was to cheepen the cost of growing, shipping and transportation on fresh fruits. If these rates are not lowered the growers will cease shipping fresh fruit; otherwise the fruit will be shipped at a loss. Rather than do that they would dry their fruit.

E. Berwick started in to read a paper on the nationalization of railroads. He proceeded to say that money for which fruit had been sold had been absorbed by "the octopus," when Chairman Buck called his attention to the fact that the subject of the nationalization of railroads had been set for another day. Berwick accordingly resumed his seat.

H. Weinstock read a paper on the distribution of fruit. The speaker eulogized the public auction system that now prevails in the East.

There should be organized a bureau of information to aid in regu'ating distribution and the auctions should be open and free for all. Some regulations should be made wheepeby too many carloads of fresh fruit should not be shipped to the same point on the same day.

The convention will adjourn at nooh tomorrow, but in the evening the delegates will be entertained at a hanquet given by the merchants of San Francisco.

President Neff interfered and the incident closed.

Prof. Christy of the State University, spoke of the value of the mining industry to the country and said that it is to the interest of the community that education of mining engineers should be complete. He hoped the miners would assist in this training by receiving the young men sent out with recommendations. After the appointment of committees on resolutions and legislation the convention took a recess until evening.

Ex-Congressman Timothy Guy Phelps followed Clunie speaking in the same strains State Senator C. W. In Nevada county, which has produced the most gold, not one in twenty of the quartz mines have been worked to a depth of 150 feet. In that one county, it is said, there is more gold that can be profitably mined than has ever been produced in the State. He declared that in California there is gold to be preduced equal to double the quantity in use in the world today.

Election of officers was the order of business at 2 o'clock this afternoon, The present officers were re-elected as follows: President, Jacob H. Neff; scoretary, W. C. Ralston; vice-president, S. K. Thornton; treasurer, Julian Sonntag. Congressman Commetti was called to the platform and addressed the convention.

United States Senator Perkins was called to address the miners. He declared that since mining began in this State, California had furnished the nation with $1,400.000,000 and the State was still producing $1,000,000 a month, yet the general government has never recognized the fact by making such appropriations as would help the mining industry. As to silver. Senator Perkins was called to the value as well as addressed the convention. Resolutions were adopted, recommending the re-enactment of the law passed at the last session of the Legislature, entitled "The California State Debris Commission," which appropriated the sum of $250,000, to be available when the general government appropriated a like amount, to build restraining darks. Confidence was expressed in the management of the State Mining Bureau, and is maintenance urged. The association declared in favor of free silver at the ratio of 16 to 1.

Congress is urged to appropriate for each of the well-known mining States and Territories, $50,000, to build trails and roads to open and develop the mineral lands for asle by the government. It was resolved that immediate action should be taken to stop the issuance of patents to the Central Pacific Railroad, on pending selections awaiting the approval of the Department of the Interior for lands in the mineral sections of California. FOLLOWING SUSPECTS.

Sacramento Detectives in Pursuit o Overland Train-robbers.

Sacramento, Nov. 20.—Officers and detectives were out in pursuit of men supposed to be the ones who stopped the overland train near this place October 11, last and looted the express car of about $50,000. Two hotel trunks were sent to Oakland from a down-town hotel by ex-press, and shortly afterward two men and a woman entered the wagon and drove away from the hotel.

From information given by the hotel-keeper and from the fact that these men were under suspicion the officers were certain they were endeavoring to get the stolen riches irto a safe place from the prying eyes of the detectives and reward-hunters. Detective Thavker summoned his men in haste. There was a hurried consultation and a quick decision and in a few moments armed men were flying over every road out of the city in hope to overtaking the suspected parties. They returned without the fugitives and are now considering new plans for the recovery of the rich booty which has been thus far so successfully hidden.

Detectives have left on every road leading out of the city and most of them have returned baffled and dejected. The men cannot be found. The men whom the officers were pursuing are known and it seems impossible, if they are the right men, that they can much longer evade capture. As was suspected by many, they have been living in this city every since the robbery.

CINCINNATI, Nov. 20.—On July 25 last Mary Ekhart of Dayton, was found dead dead in her room, in this city, with a towel knotted around her neck, her room locked and no clue to the murderer left. The Enquirer connects this murder with that of Minnie Weldt, in New York, on May 21, and that of Josie Bennit, in Buffalo, on June 30, to both of which the Cincinnati murder was similar in respect to manner and mystery.

The Enquirer then calls attention to the resemblance of circumstances between these three murders and the three strangiling murders in Denver. It suggests that all these murders were committed by one and the same man, the Denver strangler, as indicated by resemblances. It then calls attention to a fetter left by Mary Ekhart, which mentions an unidentified man whom she had met while going to Denver. She also stated in some other notes she left, that she intended to go to Denver. The Enquirer reasons from this that one man committed all these murders. The Cincinnati police will not admit that they are working up this case on the clue.

BLIND BEGGARS.

In Many Instances These People are Rank Frauds.

A good deal has been heard said of late about the blind and disabled or deformed persons who make the public streets their places of business, where they endeavor to earn money by grinding out music or other means. While those who speak of the matter express nothing but sympathy for unfortunate people who, by accident of formity, are unable to earn a livelihoo formity, are unable to earn a livelihood by ordinary vocations, yet it is argued that the county provides a place for them, and they should go to it rather than stay on the sidewalks as they do.

Another argument advanced against their being on the street as they are is that there have been a number of cases of wicked imposition. In one case, where an alleged blind man sat in the street with covers hanging over his eyes, a detective lifted the covers. The man could see as well as any one, and ran like a deer.

Not only is imposition practiced to a considerable extent, but cases have been discovered where the unfortunate blind man or blind woman, as the case might be, was

PRESERVE THE STREETS.

The improved thoroughfares of Los Angeles are a feature of the city in which every citizen may justly take pride. Even our graveled streets, when properly constructed and cared for, are as hard and smooth, almost as asphalt. If kept well sprinkled, these graveled should last for many years, with comparatively little expense for repairs. But there is a matter in this nnection which needs more careful attention on the part of the Street Superintendent than it is evidently receiving. Reference is made to the restoration of the surface of streets after they have been torn up for the laying of sewers, water pipes, gas pipes, finest thoroughfares, for the improvement of which property-owners have aid large sums of money, have been riously impaired by reason of the careless manner in which work of this kind has been performed. It is not a difficult matter, when a sewer is laid or when the street is torn up for any purpose, to restore it to as good condition as it was in before the work was begun. Every contractor should held to the strictest accountability in this regard. No piece of work should be accepted by the city until it has been carefully inspected and all defects remedied. Every street torn up, for whatsoever purpose, should be re-stored to as good condition as it was in when operations were begun. It is the business of the Street Superintendent to see that this work is done properly before its acceptance by the streets in the city have been and being seriously injured by carelessness in this matter. It is to the property-owners such streets, to the public at large, for whose use the streets are laid out and maintained, and it is, besides, an injury and a detriment to the entire municipality. It is to the interest of every citizen that our streets should be kept in as smooth and passable condition as possible, not only for the comfort and convenience of those who use them, but for esthetic reasons as well. For the good name of the city, and in justice to all, this matter should receive closer attention than it has heretofore received.

A FRENCHMAN ON AMERICAN

One of the things which residents of continental Europe find most difficult to understand in the United States is the movement for a total abolition of the consumption of alcoholic beverages, as it exists here. In the course of an article in the North American Review for November, Max O'Rell has the following to say on this subject.

"France is a country where temperance is properly understood, where man uses and enjoys the divine gift of wine with which a fertile soil has supplied him, and he is not ashamed to own it. He uses and enjoys it, as becomes a man, moderately. Temperance means moderation, and has never meant total abstinence. When a Frenchman takes cabstinence. When a Frenchman casephis glass of wine, he does so coram, populo. When the Parisian takes his absinthe (few Frenchmen outside of Paris do take it) he does not hide himself. He takes it on a table outside the cafe, and as much as I deplore the the care, and as much as I deplore the increasing consumption of this beverage, I have never seen a Frenchman take it until he gets tipsy. In the British colonies, at the hotels, you will see men take tea or water with their meals. That is what they do in the presence of their fellow creatures; but they spend the executing at the her presence of their fellow ereatures; but they spend the evening at the bar, quietly, sadly imbibing whisky till they are unable to get to their bedrooms unaided. In the prohibition States of America, I have seen men drink liquor, like castor oil, out of a little graduated glass, in the drug stores. Everybody in America knows that this is so. Once a day after lecthat this is so. Once a day, after lec turing, I take a little stimulmit, a glass of hot grog. In the prohibition states I had to take it behind the counter of a chemist, or down in the cellar of the hotel.

"It seems to me that the sly obtain-ing and drinking of spirits in this fash-ion is likely to do as much harm to a young man's moral character as ever the dram itself could do to his body." That there is a considerable element of truth in these remarks must be admitted by anyone who has studied the ndition that prevails in a city or State where a prohibition law exists. In the light of past experience, we can, however, scarcely hope that any amount of such testimony will cause the professional prohibitionist to take on-sense and practical view of question, or to cease striving after unattainable and unite with other good citizens who prefer to regulate a habit which cannot be abolished, than drive it into dark and

The Democratic party's contract with the Sugar Trust, to keep prices down until after the elections, has expired, and sugar has already gone up several notches. The seneme didn't help the Democracy very much, but it was a great scheme just the same.

In his recent lecture at Boston Chairman Wilson declared that "the country is safe." Mr. Wilson is not far wrong-the country is a great deal safer than it was a few weeks ago, before the brakes were put on the Democratic Congresss.

"God help the people!" exclaims Ig. Dornelly, commenting on the result of the elections. It rather looks as though the people did have a little help from source, when they turned the Democratic party down.

"I then set the course to pass five miles outside Point Firmin, N. 53 deg., W. By the chart this was shown to be the usual and direct course, safely outside. At noon the log registered thirty-seven miles from the San Diego bell buoy, and was reset, the steamer's position at that time being, by account, 33 deg. I min. N., 117 deg. 40 min. W. At 4 p.m. the log showed thirty-nine miles; 6 p.m., fitty-six and one-fourth miles. Having sighted no land, I then determined to go outside the islands, and altered the course to 8. 85 deg., W., the weather still being forgy. At 8 p.m. the log registered seventy-five miles traveled since noon; at 11:45, we were going at half speed, the weather still forgy.

"Wednesday, November 7, at 2 a.m., the steamer struck at the southeast point of Santa Rora Island. If the log had made an accurate register, the boat should have been thirteen miles from the point upon which she struck. Allowing the 10 per cent. variation of the log, the boat should have been nearly twenty miles from the point. I had no reason to presume that the log was out of order, or more incorrect than usual.

"It is impossible to account for the discrepancy, the wind was light. Only an unknown ourrent can account for the psi-

"It is impossible to account for the discrepancy, the wind was light. Only an unknown current can account for the position of the boat so far north of her supposed course. I have no knowledge of any such cause. I have made five or six trips before this up the coast, always keeping inside the islands, and never before encountering adverse currents. Have made trips successfully in foggy weather by dead reckoning, as in this case. The 10 per cent. variation has always covered the points. The log used was with the ship, when I took it. I went down on the same trip with the log by dead reckoning, and less the 16 per cent. it put me in position accurately. I knew at once where I was when the ship struck.

"We were carrying only water ballast, as usual; draft eight feet forward; thirteen feet aft. The ship was of steel, and I was familiar with all the disturbing forces on the compass. I had swung the ship on several occasions, the last being just before entering San Diego Harbor, and I found no deviations as registered. We carried no sail; there was not sufficient wind. There could be no heeling error; she ran on an even beam.

Capt. A. Smith of San Pedro was next called. His testimony was as to the flow of erratic currents along this coast. He has been master and pilot hereabouts fon eighteen years, and on this coast for twenty-seven years. Shipmen know of these currents, but not as to their time, place or direction. Usually a strong current runs from east to west along Catallins, but a few weeks since he encountered the same running strong in the opposite direction. the same running strong in the opposite direction. Witness thought the Crown must have encountered a strong northerly curent which, sucking through the Santa Barbara channel, must have pulled the steamer out of her course. The wreck, in his opinion, was entirely due to this erratic current and might have happened to any navigator. A fog never stops the steamboat. The witness would have taken the same course under similar circumstances.

John P. Poole, first mate, was the next witness. All the witnesses had been excluded from the room when the testimony of the mate corroborated that of the captain in all points, to the time the boat struck. The witness was then asleep, but rushed immediately on deck. A heavy sea washed a boat away, after she struck. The wind was light. Immediately when the boat struck the engines were reversed full speed, but could not pull the skip off, and soon the fires were extinguished by incoming water. Witness believed the wreck due to a strong, unknown current.

Witness came on deck at 12 midnight, Tuesday, before which the speed had been reduced by haif. His orders were to keep a lookout, blow the whistle, which was done every two minutes, and to listen for an echo. No echo was heard. Emil Smith, able seaman, also on duty, was on the lookout at the time of the accident. Orders were to keep strict watch, which witness did, but saw nothing until just as the boat struck. Witness had never seen so thick a fog.

Other than this the testimony of the witness brought out no new points, but corroborated, as had that of the others, almost te the minutest detail, the account most to the minutest detail, the account given by Capt. Hamilton.

This ended the examination of witnesses. Mr. Mortimer announced that he expected a deposition from San Francisco concerning the currents prevailing along the coast, which would doubtless be on hand Wednesday morning, and consequently an adjournment was had until 11 am. Postal Telegraph Case.

When the matter of the application of the Postal Telegraph Cable Co. for leave to construct its line along the right of way of the Atlantic and Pacific Rall-road, came up for argument on the question of a supersedeas bond of $5000, in the Circuit Court yesterday morning, Mr. Lamme, of counsel for the petitioner, stated that it had been stipulated between the parties out of court that the Postal Company should stop work over the right of way of the railroad, and complete the line at a distance of 100 feet from the track, pending the appeal, and the matter was thereupon dropped.

REVIVAL SERVICES.

EVANGELIST YATMAN SPEAKS TO A LARGE AUDIENCE.

Wo Interesting Services, at Which Much Interest was Manifested. Mr. Pratt at the First Baptist Church.

A crowded house greeted Rev. Henry Yatman in the First Methodist Episcopal Church last night. The evangelist read the scripture lesson after which Rev. Will A. Knighten led after which Rev. Will A. Anighten lead in prayer.

By way of preface, Mr. Yatman said the word had gone out that he would stay here a month. Said he: "I want to recall that, I may close my work here next Sunday or one or two weeks hence, as I am called all up and down this Coast, Yet I want to finish the work God has sent me here one or two weeks hence, as I am called all up and down this Coast, Yet I want to finish the work God has sent me here to do."

After the offering was taken Miss Moffatt sang a solo.

Mr. Yatman then read the eleventh chapter of Hebrews and proceeded with his sermon.

The speaker said that this is the faith chapter of the Bible, and he proposed to speak on faith totight. The revelation of the unseen is given by God as man's life is so he shall be judged. "I want you to free your minds from any prejudice you may have against what I may say tonight," continued the speaker. "Every soul may be saved here tonight. If God had His way every soul in Los Angeles would be saved. God wants all that will to come unto Him. Said Jesus: "Come ye that are heavy laden and I will give you rest."

"There are four classes of people in the world—those who think they are Christians and are; those who know they are not. I intend to prove if I can, that there is not a Christian in this house tonight. What is the standard of righteous, the standard given by Almighty God? I have heard men say they were going to heaven because they were as good as this deacon in the church. Not all deacons go straight up and into the pearly gates. The three testimonies by which we may know whether we are Christians or not are the witness of the spirit, the word of God; the evidence of their fruits, by their fruits ye shall know them. Going to Church every Sunday does not assure you that you are a Christian. Nobody goes to church of the Lord Jesus? He came to save the lost. What are you doing to save menanything? If not then the last evidence is against you. My argument has not changed your condition, but I may have aroused you to find out where you are. "If there is a backsilder here, get back into the sunlight of heaven. A backsilder never was nor never can be happy. I want to be a revival that will make men honest and righteous—to make converts who are willing to sacrifice for God. I want to tell you we must work. Go out with your carriages for people; and was one of great spiritual power; sub-ject, "Seeing Christ."

THE BAPTISTS.

Evangelist Pratt at the First Baptist Church.

Evangelist Pratt at the First Baptist Church.

The Bible reading by Evangelist Peatit at the First Baptist Church yesterday was exceedingly helpful, based on the carl of Moses to the emancipation of the people of Israel. Moses began to make excuses.
First, he was self-consolous; second, he feared what "they would say;" third, he was slive of speech. The application of these excuses to the general trend of Christian Die today, in its indifference to the active work, was most impressive.

At night the scripture reading was from the third chapter of John. Allusion was made to the statement of Jesus that no, man had ascended up into heaven but the Son of Man, who came down from heaven. Many persons are led away by the pretenses of those who claim to be able to communicate with the dead. Surely, if they can be reached it will not be through the medium of a "two-bil" clairtoyant. The saints of not care to come back, and those not saints cannot get back.
The text was taken from the same chapter and eighteenth verue: "Condamned already." The argument was to prove that the case of the sinner is siready settied. He is "condemned siready."

Many men keep a kind of running moral account, and they put down in bold, clear hand their little charties and good deeds, and on the other side, in very small handwriting, is put down the mistakes and follies and sins of life, and at the end of the year they strike a balance, and God is in their debt.

Men do not select a proper standard.
The round-shouldered, ungainly fellow measures himself alongside of the misshapen hunchback, and rejoices in his crectness. Measure up alongside of the law of God, the embodiment of the perfect law.

Very deep impressions were made by the forcible utterentees of the seaster.

The barar given by the Woman's Guild of St. John's Church opened yesterday on a most elaborate plan. Music Hall, in which it is being held, had been artistically decorated with paims and potted plants of every description, and presented a very handsome appearance, while the gryly-trimmed booths erected along the rides add greatly to the general effect. Fancy and useful articles of every kind are on sale at these booths, at prices ranging from cents to dollars, so that there is something for every one. A large number of visitors were present all day, and at the lunch hours the long tables were filed. The Woman's Guild is famous for its lunches and good coffee, and on this occasion did not lower their standard. All sorts of good things are to be had between the hours of 11 and 2, and there are pretty girls in abundance to serve tiem. A large crowd was present during the evening, and "La Revista Pintoreda." which was billed for the first night's eftertainment, was received with deserved enthusiasm. The Altar Guild of the church were in charge of the evening, and seelval of the young ladies took part in the entertainment, assisted by their young rentlemen friends. "La Revista Pintoreda" was a semi-military drill, with the character of the grace and skill, and the tableaux at the end of each were made beautiful by the harmony of the gayly-colored dresses. The idea was a novel one, and was destined and carried out by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Swane. The drill cousisted of fire distinct parts, "Sighting the Enemy," "The Charge," "War and Peace," "The Language and the sevolutions were most brilliam. These taking part were Misses Pearl Language. Coroner Cates was called to Redondo yesterday morning to investigate a very curious and interesting case, which, upon examination, reveals the sad tale of a proud man failen.

Robert Lee Carroll, a native of Maryland, aged 35 years, was found to have died November 20 at 9 a.m. of optum poisoning, and it was also evident that liquor was largely responsible for his death. It was learned that the man came death it was learned that the man came liquor was largely responsible for his death. It was learned that the man came from Baltimore some time ago, and that his family is one of wealth and refinement, presumably, from his letters, a branch of the famous Carroliton Carrolis. He had contracted recently the fatal habit of esting opium, and this and the companion vice of whisky-drinking had robbed him of his strength and self-respect and had caused him to gradually drift down to the life of a tramp and vargabond. He had wandered into San Diego from somewhere and had stowed away aboard of the steamer Queen with the intention, apparently of going to San Francisco, but when at Redondo his companions found him dead beside them and were compelled to acquaint Capt. Alexander of the circumstances. He at once notified the Coroner and had the facts of the death brought to light.

TESTIMONY ALL IN.

The Craig Murder Trial is Drawing to a Close.

An Eye-witness Tells About the Shooting of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter.

The Murderer's Attempt to Throw Away His Pistol After Shooting Himself—The Buena Vista Street Tragedy.

The trial of John Craig, the triple-murderer, was concluded in Department One yesterday afternoon, so far as the taking of testimony is concerned, and the case will, in all probability, reach the jury some time this swening.

The crowd of curious spectators in the vicinity of the courtroom was larger than ever when the case was called at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, but of the many who applied for admission to Judge Smith's courtroom few were chosen, the officers very properly excluding all but court officials, witnesses and newspaper men, after the seating accommodations of the chamber were taxed to their utmost capacity, thus keeping the aisles clear, and admitting a current of air throughout the room, for which those whose bus'ness compelled them to remain there were duly grateful.

Before proceeding with the rebuttal testimony, Mr. Phibbs of the counsel for the defense, presented an affidavit in support of a motion for a continuance of fifteen days, in which it was set forth that defendant's counsel had never discussed the facts relating to the murder of the Hunters and were taken by surprise by the most unexpected move of the prosecution on Monday evening, and the subsequent ruling of the court; that the introduction of the evidence of the killing of Mary E. Hunter and William Hunter was at this time incompetent, irrelevant and immaterial.

Mr. Phibbs further stated that counsel had no means with which to exercise.

time incompetent, interested that counsel had no means with which to carry on the case with justice to their client, all extra services necessitated being paid for out of their own pockets, and that in order to properly prepare to meet this new phase of the case a continuance was absolutely necessary.

phase of the case a continuance was absolutely necessary.

Mr. Gage vigorously objected on behalf of the prosecution to the motion and offered, in opposition to the affidavit, the court records up to date, and particularly the ruling of the court on November 15 last, to the effect that such testimony as was then offered would be valid if offered in rebuttal.

The matter was argued at some length, but, finally, Judge Smith lost patience and remarked that as he had made up his mind already to deny the motion it was useless to waste time in further argument.

meless to waste time in further argument.

MORNING SESSION.

James A. Carter, the paralytic negro, who had occupied the witness chair all Monday afternoon, while the attorneys were battling over the admissibility of the evidence, which he was expected to give, was then recalled. He testified to the effect that on the evening of July 25 last he saw the defendant Oralg enter the gate of the Hunter residence on Buena Vista street, and shoot at William and Mary Hunter, who were sijting on the porch. Mrs. Hunter was on the north end, while Mr. Hunter was on the steps leading up the porch. Craig went in and walked right to the foot of the steps and fired several shots in sapid succession. Mrs. Hunter everamed murder, and Mr. Hunter fell at the fifth shot, and Mrs. Hunter fell at the fifth shot, he then fired sgain and again, and stooped down behind a hedge, and Miles Long and a Spanish boy ran in, got hold of him and brought frim out. He was bleeding in the top of the head, and, while wiping off the blood from his forehead with his fingers, exclaimed: "This is terrible!"

When Craig commenced firing he did gers, exclaimed: "This is terrible! Init is terrible!"

When Craig commenced firing he did not hear a word uttered between him and the old folks. When witness first saw him he was in front of the office of the wood and coal yard. Witness stood across the street from him, and saw him distinctly. He had on a gray sult and a black hat.

On cross-examination, Carter said that the rearon he stopped to look back at Craig was that on two or three former occasions he had seen Craig go in and place his ear to the window, as if eavesdropping, after the Hunters moved into the house.

Mr. Guthrie sought to show that the witness bore ill-will, because he had been arrested by Craig on New High street for vagrancy, four or five years ago, but the witness peremptorily denied the accusa-aprinking in the yard, and throw water on ber, and at another time he had told her to go and stay with her lover.

Mr. Guthrie submitted to Carter a transcript of the evidence given by him at the Coroner's inquest, held on the body of Mrs. Hunter, and Carter was called upon to explain certain discrepancies between the testimony given by him then and that at present.

Miguel Efisalde, upon being recalled, testified to the effect that he was standing on Buena Vista street almost opposite the Hunter residence when the shooting commenced there. Two shots were fired in rapid succession; and as witness ran across the street, three more were fired, and then just as witness reached the front gate, Craig shot twice at himself and fell on the steps, with his feet on the cement sidewalk. Witness ran to the corner of Ord street to find a policeman, but not seeing one, he returned with a Frenchman named Pasqual, whom he believed at one time was a constable. Before Craig shot himself he threw a pistol away among some bushes.

Dr. R. Wernigk, who examined the me bushes.

Dr. R. Wernigk, who examined the dies at the morgue, described the ounds in detail. William Hunter had sen shot between the shoulder blades, as builet ranging downward, and emerge between the third and fourth ribs on the left side, severing one of the main teries in its course.

Mark. Hunter had been shot in the left poor arm, but the bullet passed througher body and came out between the shoulars, severing her; spinal cord in its passes.

A recess was declared at this juncture attl 1:30 p.m.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

AFTERNOON SESSION.

Upon received Joe Hunter in reuttal, who denied that he ever told Craig to look out for George."

Upon examination Mr. Guthrie attempted or refresh the witness's memory by reuting a conversation between witness and is wife on the subject, but without avail.
Asa Hunter was recalled for the purose of showing that when he arrived at he Buena Vista-street house, he saw the serro. Carter, there, but the court reneed to allow this line of testimeny to be ursued.

He was then asked whether or not on unday last he had made an experiment ith the screen door of the kitchen at the unter ranch, with the view of determining the question as to whether or not it ould be opened over the body of a man, he size of George Hunter, lying on the orch outside, but the detense made so igorous an objection that the witness was ithdrawn, and the prosecution then rested a case.

he had made at the request of the defense out at the Hunter ranch, and it was shown by him that there was only a space of about seven and one-half inches between the sill of the kitchen door and the back porch, upon which George Hunter fell when shot by Craig.

Miles A. Long was recalled for the purpose of showing that it was so dark on the night of the shooting that he could not distinguish the bodies of the Hunters on the porch, when he picked Craig up; but on cross-examination he admitted that he haw other objects smaller than human beings, among them being a pistol, which was close by Craig's side.

At 2:50 o'clock Mr. Guthrie, after holding a brief "counsel of war" with his colleagues, announced that inanmuch as the killing of William and Mary Hunter had nothing whatever to do with this case, the defense declined to go into any of the circumstances surrounding it and would, therefore, rest its case.

Mr. Gage then announced that so far as counsel was concerned, the people would offer no objection, if the defense wanted it, to a continuance of twenty-four, thirty-six, or even severity-two hours.

Mr. Guthrie retorted that the defense did not desire any continuance, and calling the attention of the court to secs. 1093 and 1094 of the Penal Code, asked that the defendant's counsel be granted leave to make the concluding argument, and that the District Attorney's representative make the closing argument for the prosecution, and "hired counsel" the opening address.

The court remarked that perhaps such an arrangement had aiready been made, but Mr. Conkling informed the court that he had requested Mr. Gage to close the argument for the prosecution, and "hired counsel" the opening address.

The court remarked that perhaps such an arrangement had aiready been made, but Mr. Conkling informed the court that he had requested Mr. Gage modestly declined to acknowledge that his young associate was his interior in either age or ability.

He said he had recently come down from near Sacramento where he had been working, expecting to work in this city, but as he was suffering from chills and fever contracted up north, he was unable to go to work immediately. Finally his condition got so bad that he decided to vagrancy, four or dive years ago, but the witness peremptorily dealed the accusation.

On redirect examination, Carter said that on one occasion he had seen Craig take the hose from his wife, while she was sprinkling in the yard, and throw water on her, and at another time he had doll her to go and stay with her lover.

Mr. Guthrie submitted to Carter a transcript of the evidence given by him at the Coroner's inquest, held on the body of Mrs. Hunter, and Carter was called upon to explain certain discrepancies between the testimony given by him then and that at present.

A DVERSE criticisms never injure a business when the A business is conducted upon an honest basis. We know that every advertisement that emanates from this house is the truth as near as the truth can be spoken. In advertising Dress Goods for 75c a yard some will doubt the accuracy of our statements when we say they have been selling from $1 to $2 a yard. When we supplement this with the statement that the goods are of the most staple character there are some who will say that we cannot afford to sell Dress Goods in this way. As a rule we cannot. On the 1st day of January there will be a radical reduction in the prices of imported goods. The loss must be met then or now. We are meeting it now. On the 1st day of January we will be in a position to take advantage of every cent of reduction and every discount in the prompt payment of all bills; we will soon make the loss back and our patrons will be the gainers. There is no doubt that the up-to-date merchant is the one who makes the turning over of his stock the leading feature of his business; he is the merchant that floats on the top of the greatest prosperity; he is the merchant that does the leading business in the city he is the wide-awake, active business man that helps to add prosperity to the upbuilding of cities and States. Our Dress Goods trade is more than double what it was a year ago. We are doing an increased Cloak business; we are cutting the prices in the Cloak Department and will from now on sell Cloaks far below a legitimate profit; you will be able to buy a Cloak now for less than they have ever been sold for at this season of the year; we are placing this business upon a different basis; to do so we are selling Cloaks in many cases at a loss; in some instances we are getting our usual profit; wherever we have an overstock at certain prices the profit is not considered; the goods must go at a reduced price; if you need a cloak now is the time to buy it; at least investigate the prices; the styles are up to date. More new Kid Gloves; not a last year or a last season's Kid Glove in stock; that is the way we are doing in every department. The goods must be new, the styles the latest. We are selling Beaded Trimmings at a great reduction and there is no trimming so good today as beaded gimps; the very latest things in the heart of the season at a big reduction in the prices. A DISGRACEFUL EXHIBITION AT TURNER HALL.

Billy Manning and Capt. Dick Mix Up in a Foot Race and Slugging Match with Some Variations.

One of the most disgraceful exhibitions ever witnessed in this city was seen at the alleged prize-fight last night in New Turner Hall between Billy Manning, ex-champion welterweight, and Capt. Dick Falkenberg, an amateur pugilist, In the first place, there was no man keeper and Johnnie W. Murphy, a Denver sport, relevee. The choice of referee was the cause of a wrangle—the captain wanting John Brink, but Manning finally secured his man, and time was called at 9:22 o'clock, after both had made their little speeches.

Both men rushed from the first blow, but Manning was the better at that game, but Manning was the better at that game, and Dick was knocked down. He scrembled to his feet, and was hit again, and friends commenced yalling foul. At this bred to his teet, and was nit again, and friends commenced yelling foul. At this Dick dropped his guard and looked to the referee, while Manning rushed him into his corner and knocked him down again, many claiming that he struck Capt. Dick referee, while Manning rushed him into his corner and knocked him down again, many claiming that he struck Capt. Dick after the latter fell. Amid great excitement and cries of foul, the round closed. Manning came up lively when time was called for. the second round, and stated over to thrash Capt. Dick before he could leave his chair. The men immediately commenced slugging all over the stage, striking while clinched, and fouling repeatedly. They fought in the wings and over chairs, and the melee ended in a grand wind-up down behind a piano at the left of the stage. Dick struck his back violently against a corner of the piano and bumped his head as he fell. Manning rushed on him, and both fell fighting to the floor; rolling and tumbling around among chairs and seconds like a couple of bulldogs in a pit. The madly-excited crowd was now piling over the ropes across the front of the stage, and cries of foul again filled the air. Dick's second, Kid O'Brien of Montana, interfered to separate the men, and Manning released Dick to turn on him. They clinched and rolled, and fought until separated by the police, who had to be called in to end the brutal exhibition. The referee gave the fight to Manning, claiming the other man stayed down over ten seconds.

O'Brien offered to fight Manning then and there for $1 a side, but the police interfered and-compelled all the participants to go to their rooms.

Manning came to the front of the stage and made a "speech" claiming that Capt. Dick had asked to be allowed to stay ten rounds. Menning said he had promised to let him, but had afterward sent Dick a card saying he intended whipping him as soon as he could, promising instead of the ten rounds 40 per cent. of the prize money. Capt. Dick, when seen, denied all that, and said he was ashamed of the disgraceful affair. He branded Manning as a foul fighter.

The fight was supposed to have been done under Marquis of Queensbury rules, but there were no ropes nor ring proper, and even as an exhibition it would not have

The question of the effect of the new ordinance, providing for a police pension, fund, was discussed, and the opinion was expressed that as the ordinance now stands, it being under a certain law, it would leave the matter in such shape that, if a policeman from whose salary a portion for the maintenance of the fund has been collected, should die, his widow could colfect $1000 from the fund. There being some doubt as to just what the effect of the present ordinance would be, it was decided to appoint a committee to prepare and present to the commission a draft of an amendment to the ordinance such as would clear away the uncertainty believed now to be existing.

For the purpose, a committee was appointed, consisting of Mayor Rowan, Commissioner Bradish, Chief Glass and City Attorney McFarland.

morning's meeting of the Fire mission promises some interesting possibly sensational developments. It will be remembered that, at Monday at will be remembered that, at Monday's meeting of the City Council, Councilman Strohm made the statement that certain persons in the city not connected with the fire department had department badges which they used for the purpose of securing free transportation on the street cars. The matter was, on motion of Councilman Rhodes, referred to the Fire Commission for Investigation.

Rhodes, referred to the Fire Commission for investigation.

In the natural course of events the matter will be presented to the Fire Commission this morning and, being presented, it will devolve upon that body to take some official action on it.

Chief Moriarty of the fire department was asked yesterday regarding the charge that parties not connected with the department are wearing department badges on which they get free streat-car transportation. He said he was able to account for all badges with which he had to do since he was Chief.

In one or two instances, he said, members of the department had reported to him that they had lost their badges at certain-fires. On such statements he had given them new badges. He did not know of any person in town using the badges improperly, although he had heard of persons formerly members of the department who had given their insignia, to outside parties instead of turning them over to the department as should have been done.

Mr. Brooks announced to the court Monday evening that he would bring Mr. and Mrs. Fitzsimmons up yesterday to justify before Justice Seaman, but he evidently was only working a characteristic bluff. In other words, he "talked through his hat," for when yesterday morning came it did not bring with it acceptable statements from the proposed sureties, as to their property qualifications. THE JURY LOCKED UP

No Verdict in the A. R. Strikers' Case.

A Difference of Opinion Among the Jurors as to the Facts Presented.

Judge Ross's Charge - Conspiracy, not Quitting Work, the Offense Alleged—A Very Plain Statement.

Although the case against Philip Stan-wood, W. H. Clune, Isaac Ross and A. T. Johnson, the four officers of the local branch of the American Railway Union, was submitted to the jury in the United States District Court yesterday morning at 11:45 o'clock that body had not arrived at a verdict when Judga Ross went bome at a verdict when Judge Ross went home at 4:45 o'clock in the afternoon, and was ordered locked up for the night, the de-fendants meanwhile being remanded to the custody of the Marshal.

At the close of the argument, the court read several instructions offered by the defense, and then charged the jury as follows:

"But, gentlemen of the jury, the defendants are not indicted for having quit work. The offense with which they are charged is, in effect, that at the time and charged is, in effect, that at the time and place mentioned in the indictment, they, Clune, Johnson, Ross and Stanwood, wilfully, unlawfully, and feloniously combined and confederated together and with divers other persons to the grand jurors unknown, to obstruct and retard the passage of the United States mails upon all regular trains of cars of the Southern Pacific Company within this judicial district, and that, acting in furtherance and pursuance of such conspiracy and agree-pursuance of such conspiracy and agreement, they, Clune, Johnson, Ross and Stanwood did, at 156 time and place alleged in the indictment, knowingly, wilfully, unlawfully and feloniously obstruct and retard the passage of the mails of the United States in and upon a certain train of cars belonging to and operated by the said Southern Pacific Company, which train of cars had theretofore been designated by the Postmaster-General of the United States as one of the trains in and upon which the United States mails should be carried by the said railroad company.

"The charge, you will observe, is that the defendants combined and confederated together and with other unknown persons to commit the acts alleged, and that, in pursuance of such conspiracy, they did commit the alleged acts. A conspiracy is an agreement or combination between two or more persons to effect an unlawful purpose. As nothing had been heard from the juryroom at 3:45 o'clock Judge Ross had the jury brought into court at that hour and interrogated that body. In response to the usual questions, Foreman Sanders replied that there seemed to be a difference of opinion as to the facts in the case, whereupon the court announced that the facts were before the jurors and gave them until 4:45 o'clock to make up their minds, with the alternative of being locked up all night.

No agreement having been reached at that hour Judge Ross went home, and the jury was left to the tender mercies of the Marshal.

As was noted in the Times' ort of the City Council meeting, the itors who had made a searching inves-tion of the financial accounts of Pasa-a had some pertinent suggestions to to regarding the conduct of pertain de-tments of the municipal government. make regarding the conduct of certain de-partments of the municipal government. They praised certain offices and criticized others, but in the case of the latter noth-ing worse than laxity was charged. Cer-tain departments were censured for not seatling with the city promptly on the first of the month instead of letting balances run over. These minor derelictions will be remedied simply by the suggestion of the Auditor, and probably no more delin-quencies of the kind will occur. The small shortage discovered in the accounts of a former Street Superintendent may be eas-ily squared up with or without the explan-ation, as it is undoubtedly chargeable to clerical errors.

Talking About the Nicaragua Canal

General News Notes. General News Notes.

SAN DIEGO, Nov. 20.—(Special Correspondence.) The mass-meeting at the Chamber of Commerce tonight (Tuesday) was attended by leading citizens to listen to Congressman W. W. He said that the railroad influence of the whole country was against this bill, and that they refer though the said of the said of the said of the said of the whole country was against this bill, and that every affect would be made by these He said that the railroad influence of the whole country was against this bill, and that every effort would be made by these transportation lines to bar the construction of the canal. At present the Nicaragua bill is on the House calendar, along with a thousand other bills. If, not acted upon before March 4, 1895, the bill diss. The prospect is that it will not be reached by the present Congress. The friends of the bill succeeded in having it reported favorably to the House. The next stap was to get Speaker Crisp's sanction, as head of the consideration. The next step was to get Speaker Crisp's sanction, as head of the Committee on Rules, and the man who is practically the committee itself, being absolute ruler of that committee, to have the bill come up on special resolution. for prompt consideration. Had it so came up, the House would, in the opinion of Mr. Bowers, have passed the bill. When Speaker Crisp was asked to give the bill a special bearing he said: "No; the finances of the country are in no condition to warrant the consideration of such a bill at present." Consequently, the bill is shelved for the present, owing to the wish, practically, of one man, Speaker Crisp, whom, Mr. Bowers says, is "supreme boss" of the situation at this moment.

MEETING OF THE SANTA ANA TRUSTEES.

Extension of the Westminster Bailroad Franchise Granted After Animated Debate—Candidates' Expenses.

SANTA ANA, Nov. 20.—(Special Correspondence.) The City Trustees' meeting Monday evening drew a large crowd as it was known that the matter of extending the franchise of the Santa Ana and Westminster railroad over Second street, would come up, and, in all probability would be decided upon finally by the board.

Before the question came up. however, D. M. Baker presented a petition to the board, asking for the appointment of F. O. Daniels as a trustee of the Santa Ana Free Public Library, to fill the vacancy made by the resignation of Dr. M. A. Menges. Mr. Daniels and W. S. Taylor were both nominated. On the first ballot Mr. Taylor received a majority vote and olly, or soth.

J. G. Scarborough, the attorney for the road, briefly reviewed the case to the board, going back to the original franchise, which was granted in 1890. At that time a forfeiture clause was inserted in the franchise, in case of non completion of the road within eighteen months, after the granting of the franchise. As a great deal of litigation for the condemnation of lands and in defending ejectment suits was necessary it was an utter impossibility for the company to complete the road in the time specified. In fact this litigation has been constantly in the way, until equy a few weeks ago, when the Sunreme Court reversed the decision of the Suserior Gourt of this county in the matter of abutting owners of property being able to eject the company. It has, therefore, been impossible for the company to complete the road in the time specified, and they asked for further time.

The Council did not seem inclined to extend the time and for an hour or more it looked as if it would decide against the road, even in the dace of the strong sentiment shown by the citizens in favor of the extension. M. M. Crockshank read a petition signed by 329 business men and property-owners, some of them living along the line of Second street, urging the Council to extend the time of the franchise and to give the company a chance to complete the road. Following the reading of this petition were speeches from a number of citizens, who urged the board to grantithe prayer of the petitioners and finally, upon a vote it was decided that the ordinance be amended to cover the ground of the original ordinance and to extend the franchise for one year.

HE RAISED SOME HAY.

J. C. Thomas of this city has a ranch out in the suburbs, and during his spare moments he indulges in a little farming for pastime. He has on his ranch fourteen acres of alfalfa that has, considering the dry year, made a remarkable yield. From the fourteen acres the past eight months Mr. Thomas has made, to be exact, 123 tons and 93 pounds of alfalfa hay which he has sold for the handsome little sum of $1219.98. The total expense of cutting, raking, shooking and hauling the hay to market was $193.92. This amount subtracted from the total amount repetived leaves the sum of $1028.06 as the total net receipts from the fourteen acres after all expenses have been paid. This means an average net income of just $73.25 per acre, which, by the way, considering the "offishness" of the year, is not to be "sneezed at."

It may be further stated that the hay was cut six times during the season, notwithstanding the fact that the land was not irrigated and that there was no rain during the entire season.

A Bold Hold-up on the Streets of San Bernardino—A Smooth Young Sharper Captured at Redlands.

SAN BERNARDINO, Nov. 20.—(Special Correspondence.) The number of hold-ups by footpads in this part of the country is increasing at an alarming extent. Several were reported from various parts of the country yesterday, and last night at about 7 o'clock a bold attempt, which came near proving serious, was made in this city. As W. L. Föwier, a freeman, was coming down I street, between Third and Fourth, he was met by two men, one of whom poked a gun at him as they commanded him to halt. Fowler did not propose disperging to footpads, and turned and fied, believing that this class of men is composed chiefly of cowards. As he can the fellow fired one shot at Fowler, who hastened with greater speed in the direction of the Santa Fe depot, where he got F. E. Pourade, night policeman and deputy sheriff, and went back dewn Third street toward I street. They met two men going toward the depot, and as they passed Fowler recognized them, and Pourade turned and took them in. Föwler them declared positively that they were the men, and they were taken to jail, where they gave the names of Charles Tuggle and Patrick Cribbons. The firing of the shot attracted the attention of the whole neighborhood, and a large crowd assembled to ascertain the cause of it all, and did not leave until some time after the fellows were jugged.

REDLANDS.

REDLANDS, Nov. 20.—(Special Correspondence.) A lightly-built young man, weighing about 125 pounds, with light hair, front teeth showing much gold filling and wearing gold-band spectacles. has been going about Southern Caffornia of late, collecting for business houses then leaving before turning over the cash. He goes by the name of H. Schickler in some places and in other presents the card of "Los Angeles Law and Collecting Agency, C. Williams, Manager. Office, No. 361. Mitchell, the traveling salesman, has been on the lookout for him for about three weeks, and spotted him here last syening. He notified Constable R. C. Shepherd, who went to the Baker House where he registered, and arrested him for obtaining money under false pretenses and embezzlement. He had sectured a number of bills for collection in this city. He had a partner working with him, who gave the name of G. Cohn. He is a short fellow, heavy set and red headed. This morning Mr. Mitchell and Constable Shepherd started out to get him, having learned that he left for Redlands at 5 o'clock last night for San Bernardino. After searching San Bernardino they leard that he was in Colton and about 3 o'clock this afternoon they secured him at that place.

gain in vigor after: actrial of Paine's celery compound.

"It takes years off their aching shoulders." As the years go on, the regular tick-tick of the heart and the rhythmic action of the digestive organs and the brain slow up and the strength must be economized. The important organs need more frequent assistance and encouragement. Paine's celery compound gives just the needed stimulus to digestion and assimilation that the system requires. It purifies the slowly moving blood of any bad humor that its stagmant flow is apt to engender, and thus removes rheumatism, neuralgia, heart palpitation, nervous weakness, sleeplessness and troubles with kidneys, liver and stomach.

MECCA OF HOBODOM.

LOS ANGELES FAST BECOMING A TRAMP CENTER.

Appointment of a Committee to De vise Measures for Relieving the Situation—A Plan is

With the arrival of the winter months hobodom seems to be centering in Los Angeles, as in former years, except that the number of the uninvited visitors appear to be augmented even more than in any previous season. The problem is fast changing from a mere theory to an actual

Recent articles printed in The Times have aided in aftracting attention to the matter, and it is being carefully considered by citizens, who are endeavoring to derise some means of taking care of those who are unable to or will not take care

At a recent meeting of the Associated Charities, a committee was appointed to consider and take action on the question. The committee is composed of Messrs. William Pridham, W. C. Patterson, H. Newmark, J. Mesmer and Chief of Police J. M. Glass.

The committee, it is expected, will have a meeting within a day or two, and it is hoped that in the near future a feasible solution of the plan will be devised. As roughly outlined, the scheme, which it s not unlikely will be proposed, is for the committee to present a suitable methe committee to present a sultable memorial to the City Council, calling attention to the immediate necessity of making provision for the men coming into town who are without means, and who are not disposed to hunt for work, or who are unable to obtain it.

As further outlined, the plan is to ask the Council to make an appropriation, not necessarily large, but yet sufficient to build a comfortable stockade in Elysian Park, at some place where it will not be unsightly. This stockade could be made large enough to afford sleeping accommodations for as many men as would be likely to be there, and could also be equipped with an inexpensive cooking outfit. It is understood not to be the intention to ask the Council to take charge of the work, but rather to make the necessary fit. It is understood not to be the intention to ask the Council to take charge of the work, but rather to make the necessary appropriation, and turn the direct supervision over to the Park Commission, leaving it for that body to arrange the details. About all that would taen be needed would be a reliable foreman who could be depended upon to see to it that the men employed did honest work while on duty.

Fy the adoption of the scheme outlined, or one similar to it, it is believed that no man in town who was physically able to care for himself would have any excuse for begging on the streets, or, in fact, for going hungry because out of money and out of work. The minor details could be arranged so that any man in town who is without means and able to work could go to the foreman beforementioned, and, after working for a certain prescribed length of time, receive a ticket which would entitle him to a meal or a lodging, as the case might be.

This would leave the matter in such

This would leave the matter in such shape that any able-bodied man who is found on the streets begging or lodging in barns or other places where he has no business to be would have absolutely no excuse for doing so. There would therefore be no reason why he should not have about the made to save time in the scholl and be made to serve time in the chain-gang.

It is believed that if such a scheme as this cap be properly put into effect the tramps will commence to give this city a
